the aged copy. In rare cases, an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page, may be replicated in the edition. We do, however, repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully; any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works. This volume in the Royal Historical Society's Cambridge Fifth Series is a comprehensive edition of the only surviving northern medieval letter collection. The first published text of the diplomatic and personal papers written, copied, and handled by the poet Edmund Spenser during his years of secretarial service and colonial planting in Ireland, 1580-1589. They are presented here with a generous introduction, illustrations, notes and appendices. The Stonor letters and papers form one of only three surviving archives of gentry correspondence from late medieval England. The collection - which includes documents ranging from love letters to household accounts - provides us with a wealth of otherwise unobtainable detail about the lives and careers of a gentry family, their servants and their friends. Much of the material comes from the period of the Wars of the Roses and allows us an insider's view on national events and the people involved in them. Originally edited by the historian C. L. Kingsford at the beginning of the century, the complete collection is reissued here, with a new introduction and annotation by Christine Carpenter. In many ways more representative of gentry life than the Paston letters, the Stonor letters and papers will be invaluable to scholars of late medieval England, and will make fascinating reading for anyone interested in the Wars of the Roses or life in medieval England. Vols. 1-53 contain papers submitted at the annual meetings in 1921-1967. This is a comprehensive edition of Maxwell's manuscript papers published virtually complete and largely for the first time. V.1 1899-1905 - 1906-1948.
